enclored/lines Enclored/lines/2014 Starticle Finduel / Thiorocence and Living Conditions data are collected about households' and people's income and other face contributing to economic living conditions. The data are used for compiling national incom distribution at startistics (DS) and the Living Conditions Survey (EU-SILC) produced for the European Union. Structure of data source Two-year rotating panel Frequency Annual Survey year / Wave 2008 Drowspace The population of the staristics comprises private households permanently living in Finland, i.e. the so-called househol population. Excluded from the survey are three living permanently living in Finland, i.e. the so-called househo population. Excluded from the survey are three living permanently living in Finland, i.e. the so-called househo population register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target percent with the oppulation register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target percent with the very strutum and units in stratified by socia-econom eriteria, emphasising high earners, farmers and entrepreneurs in the allocation. The SILC/DS sound to the first owner the percent system were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10.472 households. Collection period January – May 2008 Collection on data back, the partice sections: a specific Note cach household emperions and the first over a source of instruments. The question in fathexive instantion block of questions: a specific Note cac	eli Responsible institution St Main objective In	linolotutkimus
Responsible institution Statistics Finland / Thaterobeckar, www stat.fl Wain objective In the Survey on Income and Living Conditions data are collected about households' and people's income and other facto contributing to economic livelihood and about living conditions Survey (EU-SILC) produced for the European Union. Structure of data source Two-year rotating panel Two-year rotating panel Two-year rotating panel Structure of data source Two-year rotating panel Coverage The population of the statistics comprises private households people's homes, mursing homes, privons or hospitals). Sampling procedure The wo-placed structure of the source of pane, the master sample of the forts were darawn with simple mation and incort darget proxing and the institutional population (e.g. long-term residents of the domicile cards. The statu structure of the source of panels, the master sample of the forts were darawn with simple mation and incort darget proxing and were respondents from the previous year were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross-sectional sample cortical structure struct	Responsible institutionStMain objectiveIn
Main objective In the Survey on Income and Living Conditions data are collected about households' and people's income and other factor contributing to economic livelihood and about living conditions. The data are used for compiling national incom distribution statistics (IDS) and the Living Conditions. Survey (EU-SILC) produced for the European Union. Structure of data source Two-year rotating panel Frequency Annual Survey year, Wave 2008 Coverage The population of the statistics comprises private households permanently (ixing in Finland, i.e. the so-called househol population. Excluded from the survey are those living permanently (ixing in Finland, i.e. the so-called househo population. Excluded from the survey are those living permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target person on the basis of the domicile code. In the second phase, the master sample of 50,000 non-institutional persons aged 1 for over is selected for the population register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling units is stratified by succi-excomo criteria, emphasing high-persons, framers and enterprencurs in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross sectional sample consists of 10,472 households. Collection period Jamury - May 2008 Collection of instruives and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATL. Administrative information was collected from a varity of registers (such as tax and such sectify). Description of instruives and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by C	Main objective In structure of data source Two-particle (DS) and the Living Conditions. Survey (EUSIL C) produced for the Faropean Union. Structure of data source Two-perror of the statistics (DS) and the Living Conditions Survey (EUSIL C) produced for the Faropean Union. Structure of data source Two-perror of the statistics comprises private households permanently living in Finland, i.e. the so-called household Source and the institutional population of the statistics comprises private households permanently (LS, for over one year) abroad, those without addre and the institutional population (e.g., long-term residents of old people's homes, nursing homes, prisons or hospitals). Sampling Two-phased stratified sampling: First, a master sample of 50,000 non-institutional persons aged 16 or over is selected for the population register data. Dwelling units (permanent) ecoupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target person on the hasis of the domicil co-de. In the second phase, the master sample of dwelling units is stratified by scice second criteria. emphassing high-emers, farmers and entrepreneurs in the allocation. The SILC/IDS sample of the first wave drawn with simple random sampling without registers (acch as tra. and social security). Source and the core generation is sample consists of 10.472 households. Collection Combination of mereviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative informatics divided into hock of ogeneration are appecil. Boking and the allocation in The EUSLIC ad hour models 'orient indebations' as spatic fibek. For each household member aged 16 or over, the force to persons concerning economic strati. The Questrative informatics third and the interviews and financial activation' was attached to the orce questions and the interview sector persons and fibek componence stratic. Collection The EUSLIC ad hour models 'orientifiedbates and fibek componence is that the information and memberships in fulfillad, the following persons a sho comments divid Frequency Annual Devery year (Wav 2005 Croserage The population of the statistics comprises private households permanently (ii, for over one year) abroad, those without addre and the institutional population (e.g. long-term residents of old people's homes, nursing homes, prisons or hospitals). Sampling Two-phased statified sampling: First, a master sample of 50,000 non-institutional persons aged 16 or over is selected for one the basis of the donicit code. In the second phase, the master sample of whelling are constructed around the target person on the basis of the donicit code. In the second phase, the master sample of whelling units is stratified by secon-e-conom criteria, emphasising high-emmers, finarers and entropreneurs in the allocation. The SILC/DS second wave respondents from the previous year were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10,472 households. Collection Ionuary - May 2008 Collection or interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried our mostly by CATI. Administrative information a variaty or registers (such as tax and social security). Description of instrument Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried our mostly by CATI. Administrative information concerning economic strain. Description of instrument Combination or interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried our mostly by CATI. Administrative information concerning economic strain. Description of instrument		ontributing to economic livelihood and about living conditions. The data are used for compiling national incom-
Survey 2008 2008 Coverage The population of the statistics comprises private households permanently living in Finland, i.e. the so-called household and the institutional population (e.g. long-term residents of old people's homes, nursing homes, prisons or hospitals). Sampling	Structure of data source Ty	wo-year rotating panel
Coverage The population of the statistics comprises private households permanently file. If over one year) abroad, those without andthe and the institutional population (e.g. long-term residents of old people's homes, nursing homes, prisons or hospitals). Sampling Two-phased stratified sampling. First, a master sample of 50,000 non-institutional persons aged 16 or over is selected for the population register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target person on the basis of the donicite code. In the second plase, the master sample of Welling units is stratified by socio eccomo criteria, emphasising high-earners, farmers and entrepreneurs in the allocation. The SILC/DS sample of the first wave drawn with simple random sampling without replacement within every statum and using non-proportional allocation. The DS second wave respondents from the previous year were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size: Achieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10,472 households. Collection mode Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATL Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (such as tax and social section). Description of instruments The genetional is of with divided into blocks or dipaestions 2 metal. Bouschold members aged 16 or over, elifoxia for and the same way at that time. Definitions A person residing alone, or all household cover-indebedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnairs in a thousehold cover-indebedness and financial exclusion" was attached in books of dipaestions in a membership is fulfilled, the following persons a labox could formath	A 7 population. Excluded from the survey are hose Iving permanenty (i.e. for over one year) adroad, those without adde and the institutional population (e.g. long-term residents of old poople's homes, nursing homes, prisons or hospitals). Sampling procedure Two-phased stratified sampling: First, a master sample of 50,000 non-institutional persons aged 16 or over is selected for the population register data. Dwelling units (permaent occurants of a dwelling units is stratified by socio econom criteria, emphasising high-earners, farmers and entrepreneuts in the allocation. The SILC/DS sample of the first wave drawn with simple random sampling without replacement within every stratum and using non-proportional allocation. The IDS second wave respondents from the previous year were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10.472 households. Collection Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (stack as tax and social accurity). Cescription of instruments The questions block, housing block, a block on household compositin The EUCSILC ad-hoc module 'uver indebedness and financial exclusion'' was attached to the core question are in it context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons a also counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence, persons conducting military service Sampling procedure Two-phased startified sampling. First, a master sample of $0,000 non-institutional persons aged 1 or over is selected for the population register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target person or the basis of the domicile code. In the second phase, the master sample of dwelling units is stratified by socio-econom criteria, emphasising high-earners, farmers and entrepreneurs in the allocation. The SIL/OIDS sample of the first wave drawn with simple random sampling without replacement within every stratum and using non-proportional allocation. The IDS second wave respondents from the previous year were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10.472 households. Collection period January – May 2008 Collection period Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (such as tax and social security). Description of instrume The expectibulation (site of the core question site is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household composition to context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Defaultone A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation and methorship is infullied, the fully ing persons a also counced as household members inserspective of the duration of the aspective duration final security. Household A person residing and vorking in anoth	pc	opulation. Excluded from the survey are those living permanently (i.e. for over one year) abroad, those without address the population register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target person on the basis of the dominic evode. In the second phase, the master sample of dwelling units is stratified by socio-econom criteria, emphassing high-armers, farmers and entrepreneurs in the allocation. The SL/DIS sample of the first wave drawn with simple random sampling without replacement within every stratum and using non-proportional allocation. The DIS second wave respondents from the previous year were selected in the same way at that time. Sample size Achieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10,472 households. Collection period January – May 2008 Collection mode Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative information was collected from a variary of registers (such as tax and social security). Description of instruments The questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household compositio The EU-SILC ad-hoc module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in the context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provide that this criteria of household formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons also counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service. conscript service, persons residing and studying in another locality of theores counted most house hold some begener. Providvoting in another locality or abrons conditified the	Sampling
Collection Image Priod Collection period January – May 2008 Collection mode Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (such as tax and ascial security). Description of instruments The questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, chi care block, health questions block, housing block, a block on household compositio The EU-SILC ad-hoe module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in th context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions Household A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of bousehold formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons a also counted as household member airrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service: conscript service; persons residing and studying in another locality of abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and use of household income; persons residing and studying or marother ing. Household head The Following persons from a household of their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in dornitories, unless they are married or official cohabiting. Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which altermative criteria are appl	th on cr dr	he population register data. Dwelling units (permanent occupants of a dwelling) are constructed around the target persons in the basis of the domicile code. In the second phase, the master sample of dwelling units is stratified by socio-economic riteria, emphasising high-earners, farmers and entrepreneurs in the allocation. The SILC/IDS sample of the first wave is rawn with simple random sampling without replacement within every stratum and using non-proportional allocation. The
Collection Image Priod Collection period January – May 2008 Collection mode Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (such as tax and ascial security). Description of instruments The questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, chi care block, health questions block, housing block, a block on household compositio The EU-SILC ad-hoe module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in th context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions Household A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of bousehold formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons a also counted as household member airrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service: conscript service; persons residing and studying in another locality of abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and use of household income; persons residing and studying or marother ing. Household head The Following persons from a household of their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in dornitories, unless they are married or official cohabiting. Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which altermative criteria are appl	Sample size A	chieved cross-sectional sample consists of 10.472 households.
Collection period January – May 2008 Collection mode Combination of interviews and administrative information. The interviews were carried out mostly by CATI. Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (such as tax and social security). Description of instruments The questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, chi care block, healt questions block, housing block, a block on household acconomics and a block on household compositio The EU-SILC ad-hoc module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in t context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation and membership is fuffilled, the following persons also counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service - conscript service: persons residing and studying in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and u of household income; persons from a household of their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own if they li- mostly on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in dormitories, unless they are married or official cohabiting. Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which alternative criteria are applied. Data quality aspects Both overall household and overall pensonal non-responses dn on tormally exist from regist	Collection 11
Administrative information was collected from a variaty of registers (such as tax and social security). Description of instruments The questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, chi care block, health questions block, housing block, a block on household compositio The EU-SILC ad-hoc module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in th context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons a also counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service - conscript service; persons residing and working in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and u of household income; persons residing and studying in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and u of household income; persons tensiding and working in another locality or abroad if they are married or official cohabiting. The Following persons torm a household their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own if they liv mostly on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in dormitories, unless they are married or official cohabiting. Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which alternative criteria are applied. Data quality aspects Monts all income is from registers, and item non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%.		anuary – May 2008
Description of instruments The questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, chi care block, health questions block, housing block, a block on household commixs and a block on household compositio The EUSIL Cathoen codule "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in the context of the core questions concerning economic strain. Definitions A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation on the absence: persons conducting military service - conscript service; persons residing and working in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and u of household income; persons residing and studying in another locality if they use income received mostly from the parents; persons temporarily in institutions, on holiday or travelling. Household head The person win the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which alternative criteria are applied. Non-response error Both overall household and overall personal non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%. Item non-response / Almost all income is from registers, and item non-responses do not normally exist from register sources. Missing moneta unputation values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Data quality aspects Endowshold lecouve weight has been adjusted to march specified marginal distrib
Definitions Household A person residing alone, or all the persons, related or not, who reside and have their meals together or otherwise use the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons a also counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service - conscript service; persons residing and working in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and us of household income; persons residing and studying in another locality if they use income received mostly from the parents; persons temporarily in institutions, on holiday or travelling. The Following persons form a household of their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own if they lis mostly on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in domitories, unless they are married or official cohabiting. Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which alternative criteria are applied. Data quality aspects Monore all income is from registers, and item non-response do not normally exist from register sources. Missing moneta values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Weighting Final household stoed in the calibration process. Labour market information Information available from the following sources: Labour market information Calendar year 2007 Ligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). <t< td=""><td>Description of instruments Th ca Th</td><td>he questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, child are block, health questions block, housing block, a block on household economics and a block on household composition he EU-SILC ad-hoc module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in the</td></t<>	Description of instruments Th ca Th	he questionnaire is divided into blocks of questions: a specific block for each household member aged 16 or over, child are block, health questions block, housing block, a block on household economics and a block on household composition he EU-SILC ad-hoc module "over-indebtedness and financial exclusion" was attached to the core questionnaire in the income together. Provided that this criteria of household formation and membership is fulfilled, the following persons a also counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service + conscript service; persons residing and working in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and u of household income; persons form a household of their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own if they liv mostly on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in domitories, unless they are married or official cohabiting. Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which alternative criteria are applied. Non-response error Both overall household and overall personal non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%. Item non-response / Almost all income is from registers, and item non-responses do not normally exist from register sources. Missing moneta mputation Values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Weighting Final household sued in the roles. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sampl corrects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: Reference period	Definitions
Household head The person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases which alternative criteria are applied. Data quality aspects Non-response error Both overall household and overall personal non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%. Item non-response / Almost all income is from registers, and item non-responses do not normally exist from register sources. Missing moneta values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Weighting Final household level weight has been constructed in an integrative calibration, i.e. both the household and the perso levels were included in the process. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sampl corrects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information Eligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Informe A	als co of pa Th m	Iso counted as household members irrespective of the duration of the absence: persons conducting military service of onscript service; persons residing and working in another locality or abroad if they are involved in the acquisition and use if household income; persons residing and studying in another locality if they use income received mostly from their arents; persons temporarily in institutions, on holiday or travelling. The Following persons form a household of their own: subtenants; domestic staff; students living on their own if they live to softly on their own income or on a student loan; students residing in dormitories, unless they are married or officially.
Data quality aspects Non-response error Both overall household and overall personal non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%. Item non-response / Almost all income is from registers, and item non-responses do not normally exist from register sources. Missing moneta values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Weighting Final household level weight has been constructed in an integrative calibration, i.e. both the household and the personal non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information Eligibility Eligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Income Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level	Household head Th	he person with the highest personal income is chosen as the household's reference person except for some special cases in Non-response error Both overall household and overall personal non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%. Item non-response / Almost all income is from registers, and item non-responses do not normally exist from register sources. Missing monetal values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Weighting Final household level weight has been constructed in an integrative calibration, i.e. both the household and the person levels were included in the process. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sampl corrects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources:
Item non-response / Almost all income is from registers, and item non-responses do not normally exist from register sources. Missing moneta values for the interviewed income items, most notably interest income taxed at source, were imputed. Weighting Final household level weight has been constructed in an integrative calibration, i.e. both the household and the perse levels were included in the process. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sampl corrects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information Eligibility Eligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Informe Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions.		oth overall household and overall personal non-response rate for the whole cross-section are 18.22%.
Weighting Final household level weight has been constructed in an integrative calibration, i.e. both the household and the person levels were included in the process. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sample corrects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information Eligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Information Eaference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. levels were included in the process. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sample corrects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates the fixed number of households used in the calibration process. Labour market information Eligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Information Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions.
Eligibility All persons (excluding those born within the last 12 months). Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Income Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. 	lev	evels were included in the process. The weight, that was initially constructed separately for each wave of the sample prects for unit non-response and has been adjusted to match specified marginal distributions. The weight also inflates to
Employment Information available from the following sources: (1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Income Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. exertictions	Labour market information
(1) Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household members aged 16 or over. (2) Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old. Most job characteristics were collected for persons who had some employment during the income reference year. Income Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. Restrictions Income Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. Restrictions	(1 mm (2 fre	 Self-defined economic status. December of the income reference year is used as the basis. Asked from all household nembers aged 16 or over. Monthly activities (number of months for each activity), 12 categories. Overlapping activities are permitted. Not asked from children less than 1 year old.
Reference period Calendar year 2007 Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. Restrictions	Income
Unit of time Annual amounts Unit of collection Individual level Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. Restrictions		alendar year 2007
Taxes and contributions Amounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions. Restrictions Restrictions
		mounts are collected gross of taxes and contributions together with detailed info on taxes and contributions.
Additional remarks	Restrictions
	Additional remarks

Sources: [1] Eurostat (2010), 2008 Comparative EU Intermediate Quality Report: Version 2 – June 2010 (ESTAT/F3/GRG D(2010)), Luxembourg: